R. W. Wiese Dies In Collision

Vehicles Crash At Intersection

Tragedy struck at a Milam cross-roads about 10:30 a. m. Thursday (May 11) when vehicles driven by Robert W. (Buddy) Wiese, 50, Cameron businessman, and Carroll Cook also 50, of Austin collided at FM Rds. 486-487 near Sharp.

Wiese was thrown from his 1960 Chevrolet pickup and killed. He was dead on arrival at St. Edward's Hospital in Cameron.

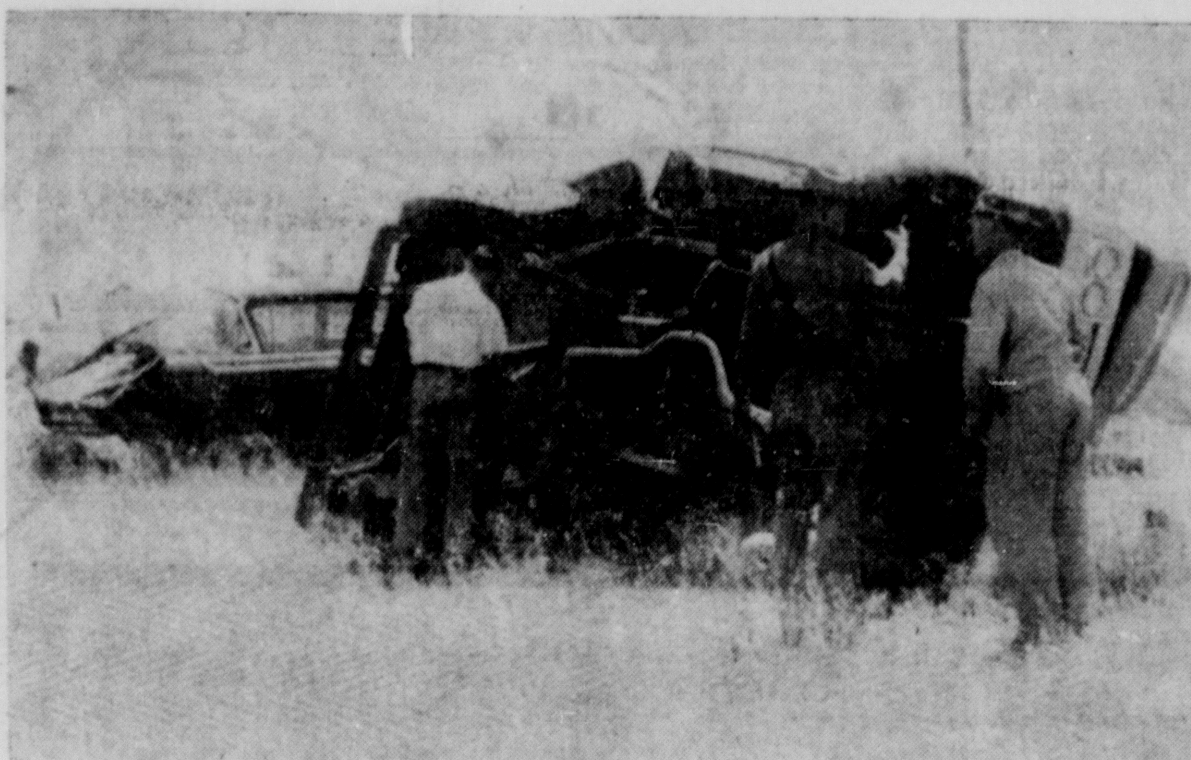

Cook is in serious condition in John's Hospital, Taylor, suffering from multiple abrasions and lacerations and rib fractures.

State Patrolman Gilbert Smith, Cameron, said that Wiese was driving west on FM 487 and was in collision with Cook, driving his 1958 Ford north FM 486. Both vehicles were total losses, Smith said.

The collision occurred at the intersection of the two farm roads at McDonald's Store. Smith said cause of the fatal accident was failure to yield right-of-way.

Luther McDonald, operator of the store only about 150 feet from the collision, said Wiese's pickup rolled over about three times, spinning through a fence into a pasture. Wiese was thrown from the truck.

Smith said the collision occurred about in the middle of the intersection with Cook's car front collided with the driver's door side of the pickup at impact.

Board To Reconvene Study Of Agenda, Johnson Issue

A near six - hour meeting of the Cameron School Board will be reconvened 7:30 p. m. Thursday to complete a 14-point agenda and determine the employment status of coach - teacher Wallace Johnson, 41.

The board discussed Johnson's contract with a group of about 25 school patrons for an hour and a half last Thursday night and spent four hours on other school business.

The group, most of them appearing in Johnson's behalf, asked why Johnson had not been recommended for re - employment. Johnson himself asked for an explanation of the Administration's recommendation to defer action on his contract. The board had voted April 13 to table contracts of Johnson and one other teacher.

Mrs. Lyle McDermott, a spokesman for the group, voiced approval of Johnson as a teacher, praising his math instruction of her daughter, and expressed regret at his not being rehired. Others in the group, a number of them members of Johnson's church, voiced approval for Johnson's classroom work and popularity with his students.

Supt. Earl Knebel said he had asked no teacher to resign and that experiences last fall showing Johnson's inability to work with Ada Henderson Principal Arley Attaway was the basis for his decision to recommend tabling Johnson's contract.

"I did what my convictions said were right," Knebel told the group. He cited Attaway's desire to carry out the policies of the school board and administration and said Head Coach Bill Bates had been one of Johnson's staunchest supporters, recommending his re - employment. Knebel said he could not see how Johnson could work with another principal if Johnson were transferred to another school in the system.

Attaway came under fire in statement from Mrs. Willie Kuzel, one of the visiting patrons, who said she had talked with other teachers who were unable to get along with Attaway.

Attaway said that "not once have I had the full co - operation of Johnson during the school year."

B. F. Grimes, a local businessman, said that Johnson had embarrassed his daughter, a sixth grader, in class.

Johnson countered by saying that he often kidded students with the terms "stupid" or "hello, idiot," meant in a joking manner.

One woman in the group noted that her daughter had been kidded in such a manner by Johnson in her (the mother's) presence.

Board Secretary Dr. David Shapiro asked: "Is this a question of personal animosity?"

He moved to table board action until the additional information could be reviewed. Board President Milton Schiller set a meeting time of 7:30 p. m. May 18 for final board action.

For another four hours, the board heard reports on a proposed $35,000 YHS Field House, needed repairs in Cameron school buildings, and recommendations on hiring auxiliary school personnel at O. J. Thomas.

And the board interviewed and voted to employ Ray Stevens, 24, of Crockett, as an assistant coach. Holder of a master's degree from Texas A & M, Stevens will be an assistant coach and teacher in Ada Henderson to succeed Harrison McLerran, who will teach, but not coach next fall.

Board members viewed drawings of a proposed 75 by 50 - foot concrete block field house, but tabled detailed discussion on the project. Dr. Shapiro said that necessary repairs and improvements in Cameron school buildings should take precedence over construction of a field house at the time.

Idea for a field house was discussed by the board about a year ago with planning to include locker rooms and facilities for YHS grid and visiting teams, making room in YHS Gymnasium for institution of a broader physical education program.

Then the board approved part of a list of 45 items recommended by the board's grounds and building committee for repair and improvements. Items in Ada Henderson, O. J. Thomas and Yoe High School buildings included: classroom improvements, some new

West Week Planners To Meet Thursday

A third public meeting of Cameron's third annual Western Week boosters will be held 7:30 p. m. Thursday (May 18) at Milam District Courtroom.

Action Deferred Until June Meet; Truck Discussed

City Councilmen Tuesday deferred voting on a replacement for Richard W. Moseley until the June 5 meeting after Mayor Coleman Duncum submitted four names for consideration.

Names listed for the Place 3 post were: Starrett Hickman, retired grocer; C. E. Curtis, a druggist, Lincoln Mondrik former councilman and Homer Allen, retired businessman, all of Cameron.

Duncum said the men had either been recommended or had indicated interest in the post, vacated by Moseley May 1. Moseley was re - elected to a third term in April, but had to resign the post in accepting a post as assistant manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Councilman E. L. Wied asked for additional time to review the nominations since he had not known there would be that many. The Council voted unanimously to table the selection, to be by secret ballot, until the next regular meeting.

The appointee - candidate will serve until the next general city election in April, 1962.

In other action, Councilman John A. Smith reported that his Council committee on firetruck selection was gathering additional information for new firetruck specifications. He said planning was shaping around the purchase of a 500-gallon pumper, similar to the newest firetruck now in service here.

Councilmen also talked over paving conditions with Aubrey Slough, owner of Slough Construction Co., which paved a number of streets in Cameron in the past two years.

The Temple contractor was asked to check points of paving on North Jackson to advise on what might be done to maintain the streets better and what corrective measures could be taken to improve paving weakspots on Jackson.

Slough said he had been watching the paving surface on North Jackson particularly and opined he saw nothing of unusual wear. He would check the streets again, he said.

The Council also heard a report from City Sec. John Andres on repair cost of parking meters. A letter from a meter company said it would cost about $25 per meter to repair them. The Council deferred the question for further study, officials said.

County Agents [Notes

Situation On Insects Improved

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

Beneficial insects are plentiful in unpoisoned cotton fields and have done a good job of stopping the aphids (plant lice) noted in seedling cotton earlier. A small round shaped brown beetle called a "ground beetle," lady bugs and ants are included in the beneficial insect list.

Observation indicates that cotton flea hoppers may not be as numerous as last summer. Wild flowers, particularly "horsemint" are host plants for the flea hopper. Present indications point toward a light crop of host plants. The first cotton flea hopper was noted on small cotton in the Hanover community on May 10.

It will be the last part of May before flea hoppers in any damaging numbers are expected. The Milam county 7-step cotton committee headed by Wilburn Beckhussen of Sharp and Buckholts, met last week and agreed to sponsor community tours to assist cotton farmers with their cotton insect problems. Tours will be held in Val Verde community headed by E. D. Taylor, in the Buckholts-Sharp community, headed by Beckhussen, in the Cameron area headed by Joe P. Mueck and Anton Moraw and in the Thorndale community headed by Edwin Fuessell and Arthur Thies. The county agent will assist with the field tours.

Cotton farmers are reminded starting the latter part of May, that cotton production only 1-4 bale (125 lbs. lint) per acre using hand harvesting methods pays a net return of only $3.68 per acre. Machine harvested cotton making the same yield returns only $6.47 per acre.

Cotton yielding 250 lbs. of lint (1-2 bale per acre) returns $20.12 per acre when hand harvested, and $34.19 per acre when machine harvested. Milam county averaged about 166 pounds of lint cotton per acre in 1960. An increase of only 40 pounds of lint cotton over last years average yield on some 56,861 acres allotted to Milam county in 1961, would increase the gross income from the cotton crop by better than $500,000 as a result of the additional 4,000 bales of cotton.

Cultural Methods Can Eliminate Johnsongrass

COLLEGE STATION — Johnsongrass can be eliminated from Texas cotton fields in one season through the use of proper cultural methods supplemented by spot spraying, says Glenn Black, extension cotton specialist.

Herbicide oil such as naphtha while cool weather prevails. Diesel or kerosene give best results during warmer weather. Water solutions of sodium dalapon or other chemicals are also effective, Black says. Oils are commonly applied to the crown of Johnsongrass near the ground while water solutions are applied as foliar sprays.

The specialist states that a half and half mixture of naphtha and diesel oil or naphtha and kerosene are oil sprays commonly used in warmer weather. Oil mixtures may be used for economy with C-56 added for increased toxicity, or for a combination of contact toxicity and residual effectiveness. Oil sprays kill on contact when applied to the crown of Johnsongrass sprouts 6 inches or less in height.

Sodium dalapon is usually used at the concentration of 20 pounds in 100 gallons of water. It is applied to the foliage and is a translocated herbicide but also has a residual effect.

A man on foot using a hand sprayer does the best and safest job of spot - spraying Johnsongrass in crops, according to Black. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for complete details on this cost - cutting practice in

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY — ORIENTAL FRUIT MOTH

When terminal growth on peach trees begins to wilt, this pest is probably at work. First indication of oriental fruit moth infestation usually is the dying back of new twig growth in the spring.

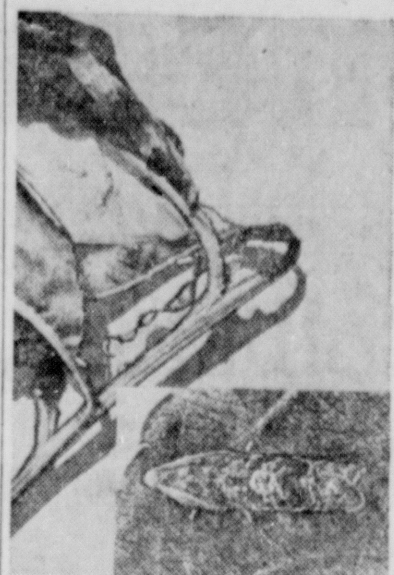

Later, pests feed inside the fruit. Both types of damage make oriental fruit moth one of the most serious problems for peach growers. Although this pest favors peaches, it also attacks plums, pears, apples, apricots, and several other fruits.

Mature moths are grayish with irregular chocolate-brown wing markings. They resemble codling moths but are only about 1/4 inch long with a 1/2 inch wingspread.

Flat whitish eggs are laid on leaves and twigs. Newly-hatched larvae are pinkish or creamy white with brown heads. They burrow in tender terminal twigs. Later generations work into the fruit around the peach stone. Often no outward blemishes are visible on the peach when picked, but soon after it is packed the fruit will break down and reveal serious interior damage.

This prolific pest may produce up to 7 generations in Southern peach orchards. From 2 to 5 is more usual in other areas, beginning with the emergence of adult moths in the early spring.

Recently growers found that a new insecticide offered broad-range control of major peach pests. This material, called Sevin, can be applied as a dust or spray to kill oriental fruit moths. Because it is a carbamate and chemically different from chlorinated hydrocarbons and phosphates, Sevin is safer to use, scientists point out.

Entomologists explain that regular and thorough insecticide applications will keep fruit moths and other insects in check. Prevention of pest buildup is more economical than fighting large populations that have a stronghold in an orchard.

UNHATCHED EGGS COSTLY

Eggs which fail to hatch are costing egg producers and hatcheries in Texas and the nation million of dollars annually, says W. F.

Krueger of Texas A & M College-Department of Poultry Science. A considerable part of this loss is caused from improper care of the eggs prior to incubation.

Why Mosquitoes 'Bug' Certain Ones Subject Of Study

COLLEGE STATION — Do you often wonder why mosquitoes seem to prefer you over someone else? If you do, you are not alone.

If scientists can find precise effective repellents that would mask the attraction might be developed. Attraction retarding materials might be combined with insecticides. This would result in fewer insects bothering treated individuals, and the more persistent pests would be killed by the insecticides.

Experiments by entomologists at USDA's insect laboratory at Orlando, Florida, illustrate the complexity of such research. They dressed a man in a lightweight diving suit that kept water vapor, carbon dioxide and other gases from escaping t the surrounding environment. He was placed in a small observation room with three man - size dummies and 300 mosquitoes. The subject's breath was drawn outside the room through a hose.

Mosquitoes showed no preference between the man and the dummies. When carbon dioxide was discharged about the man's head, however, he attracted more mosquitoes.

CAMERON HERALD

VIEW ON SPORTS

— WITH ROBERT MANN —

In the past, Cameron athletic fans have never failed to support any worthwhile sports team or organization, both financially and spiritually.

"Why stop now?" Cameron's Little Leaguers are in need of $1,500 dollars before they can open their playing season. Insurance, uniforms for minor leaguers, and catcher equipment are the main expenses; although there are other incidentals that cost money before a program of this size and capacity can be carried out.

League President Bassel Wilson and secretary, Jim Edwards, are sending out a last plea to Cameronites to dig in their pockets and contribute to the worthies of worry causes, "youngsters."

YHS students have come up with a new sport, "Cowboying."

With the close of school just a week away a number of Yoe Junior and Senior boys are turning their interest to the rodeo arena. Three Cameron boys won belt buckles at Lott's annual FFA rodeo.

Buckholts Bluebirds

An early picture of Corpus Christi is given by an obscure second lieutenant, U. S. Grant, who was serving there with the army commanded by Gen. Zachary Taylor in 1845:

After reaching shore, or Shell Island, the labor of getting to Corpus Christi was slow and tedious. There was, if my memory serves me, but one small steamer to transport troops and baggage when the Fourth Infantry arrived. Others were procured later. The distance from Shell Island to Corpus Christi was some sixteen or eighteen miles. The channel to the bay was so shallow that the steamer, small as it was, had to be dragged over the bottom when loaded. Not more than one trip a day could be effected. Later this was remedied by deepening the channel and increasing the number of vessels suitable to its navigation.

Highway Success Story...

Completion of the US 77 leg south of Rockdale to the Lee County line will be a landmark in highway construction in Milam County.

It was not too many years ago that the first stretch of US 77 in Milam County was first rebuilt, that from the North Milam line to Cameron. Since then, the Minerva - Rockdale leg has been completed and gone into use.

This construction is part of an overall success story in Milam roadbuilding that has seen at least 50 miles of new highway, a number of bridges and numerous miles of repaving and widening in the past three years.

Two years ago, the State Highway Dept. assured Milam Countians it would build long-needed roadways, both state-federal and farm-to-market types, as fast as right-of-way was available. Their word has been kept.

And Milam Countians have responded with co-operation in working out right-of-way problems which at once improve value of farms and homes and damage some areas of land.

But with understanding for the long-range need of highways in this county, Milam residents have worked with city, county and state officials in bringing these roads into being.

Of course the price of progress is sometimes high. And it makes obvious comparison between old roads and the wide new lanes. But so did Commander Shepard's rocket ride two weeks ago show the disparity between the missile age and conventional air travel.

Milam Countians can be proud of the part they are playing in bringing good roads to their front doors.

Western Week Will Boom...

Cameron's third Western Week will have a new dimension when it opens July 8 with the traditional Horse Show Parade and gaited horse show at Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

High on the list of events this year will be a queen contest, showing of Western "silents" movies, special events such as an old-fashion style show, square dancing and a demonstration of expert marksmanship by Texas Rangers.

Many of these new projects are subject to confirmation. But a major percentage of them would widen the interest in Western Week activity to even newer heights.

Crowds of tremendous proportions for a city of 5,640 have attended events during the Saddle Club Horse Show and Western Week, upwards to 12,000 for the parade alone. With additional events between the July 8 and July 15 horse shows, a larger minimum of people will be in Cameron enjoying Cameron hospitality.

It is this kind of planning that makes events outstanding. Neighboring cities Hearne and Rockdale have recognized Cameron's successes and are planning events in the same period of early July. But they will have difficulty duplicating the caliber of Cameron's Horse Show or the enthusiasm for Western Week here.

It is obvious that people make an event a success. If numbers prescribe success, we predict Cameron's Western Week will be a "real rouser".

134 Science Students In Texas Recognized

AUSTIN — The outstanding science - math spring graduates at 134 Texas high schools are being recognized with slide rule awards from the Texas Chemical Council, an association of the state's chemical manufacturing companies.

E. T. Lindsey of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Texas Chemical Council's Science Education Committee, announced the awards will be presented to the students about the middle of May.

Annual slide rule presentations are part of a continuing effort by the state's chemical industry to stimulate scientific interest and achievement among high school students, Lindsey explained.

The principal and science - math teachers of each participating high school selected a student for the award. Scholarship, imagination, and scientific aptitude were some of the qualities considered in making the selections.

As a follow - up step in the science education program, Texas Chemical Council will also sponsor an essay contest for the 134 outstanding students. Each is being asked to write about "The Best Features of My High School Science Program." The student who wins the essay contest will be given an individual trophy, and his school will be given a matching trophy plus $500 for the purchase of science equipment. Winner of the essay contest will be announced in late May.

Showdown Near In Money Battle

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — A showdown is near in the 57th Legislature's money-raising battle.

Final round apparently will be between Gov. Price Daniel, who is anti - general sales tax, and a Senate group, which has indicated leanings toward a sales tax.

Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, also is serving as chairman of a subcommittee to consider the House - passed sales tax bill. Other members are Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, Jep Fuller of Port Arthur and Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells.

Speaking before a Senate committee hearing on the sales tax bill, the governor minced no words in saying he would veto it "or anything similar to it."

He urged consideration of a "package bill" that would levy selective sales or excise taxes in eight areas. Affected would be gas pipelines, motor driven tools and appliances, jewelry, utilities, stock transfers, soft drinks, beer, liquor and restaurant meals.

This plan, said the governor, would bring in $166,000,000 a year — enough to cover the general appropriations bill, pay raises for teachers, and leave a nest egg for next time.

HOUSE VOTES TEACHER RAISE

House gave one of the biggest votes of the session to a bill that would give teachers the full $810 a year salary raise they seek. Rep. L. DeWitt Hale's bill was approved 143-to-4 and sent to the Senate.

It would raise the minimum pay for teachers with a bachelor's degree to $4,014 and for master's degree teachers to $4,239. Yearly increases for experience would be doubled, from $54 to $108.

Superintendents and principals would receive from 20 to 40 per cent more than the base for classroom teachers.

JOBLESS AID INCREASED
A bill to increase unemployment pay, both in amount and duration, received preliminary House approval.

Rep. Tony Korieth of Sherman is original sponsor of the much-amended bill. It would raise maximum weekly payment to the jobless from $28 to $35 and increase from 24 to 30 weeks the period during which an unemployed worker could receive state help. It would require that the applicant be out of work for one week before receiving unemployment compensation.

Bill would cost employers an extra $6,000,000 to $8,000,000.

CD BILL FILIBUSTERED
A proposal to give the Legislature emergency powers in event of enemy attack came in for attack in the Senate.

Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo is sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the Legislature to fill offices made vacant because of enemy attack. As first offered, it also authorized the Legislature to "take such measures as may be necessary," even to suspension of the Constitution.

Opposing the bill were Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, the constitution's most vocal defender, and several other senators.

Even with the offending phrase deleted, the measure was approved by only a 14 - to - 12 vote. Two - thirds approval is needed for a constitutional amendment.

Mexican Labor Law Extended

By Cong. Bob Ppage

Thursday the House passed a two year extension of the existing Mexican contract labor law. I voted for it. Although this has been passed many times, it is always a highly controversial matter. As I see it, the legal arrangement under which Mexican farm workers, or braceros, are brought into the United States has been most successful. It has, for all practical purposes, eliminated the deplorable "wetback" situation which was so prevalent a decade ago. It has protected the Mexican worker against exploitation and has enabled hundreds of thousands of Mexicans to take enough money home to get a start as independent farmers in that country.

It is a most desirable type of foreign aid. Mexico gets capital which she needs and the United States gets services in return. The program has made possible the continuation of many farming operations in the United States especially fruits and vegetables which would have otherwise necessarily collapsed because of the impossibility of securing adequate labor to do this seasonal farm work at any wage. Without these Mexican workers we would be importing a much larger part of our fresh vegetables.

As I see it, the program has definitely improved the plight of many American farm workers because it has established high standards of working conditions which are bound to be reflected, at least to some extent, in the employment of domestic workers. Mexican workers can only be used where the Department of Labor has found that there is no adequate supply of domestic labor and the Mexicans must be paid at least as much as the prevailing wage in the community.

A great many people have criticized this program, first, because they confuse it with the old wetback practice whereas actually it has been the only effective instrument we have known of breaking up the use of wetbacks. Others have criticized it because they feel that all farm wages are too low. I would be delighted if all farm workers could make as much as industrial workers make. I think they should make just as much and I think they would make just as much, if the farmers who employ them were getting as much for their products.

The sad fact is that so long as farm products sell for an average of only 78 per cent of parity the owner of the farm simply cannot pay the kind of wages that the steel mills, auto factories, etc. pay. As I see it, this is another example of the importance of a sound farm program not only to farmers but to consumers as well.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Philosopher Says Long-Range Rockets Are Easier To Solve Than Long-Range Farm Plan

Dear editor:

I was using the margin of a newspaper to do some figuring on last night, what I was figuring was how many cows hides it takes to buy a pair of shoes, on account of I had a prime Jersey steer butchered the other day and discovered the hide which weighed 32 pounds brought $2.56, which is 8 cents a pound and based on a paid of $20 shoes, that's eight hides to pay for one pair, and while I have never made a pair of shoes, I don't believe it'd take that much leather, even for a size 12. In fact, I glanced down at my feet, or rather out, as I had them propped up at the time, and I calculated a careful worker ought to get three or four pairs out of one steer hide, and by that time my figures had run off the margin and into a news article and to get my mind off the lack of parity in steer hides and shoes I read it.

According to it, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman told Congress a "successful long - range farm program is more important to this nation than putting a man in space."

Now I agree with him 100 per cent, but what Mr. Freeman is ignoring is that putting a man in space, as hard as it is, is a lot easier than solving the farm problem.

A successful long - range rocket missile, as complicated as it is, is child's play compared with a successful long - range farm program.

With missiles and other space exploits, you're prepared for a number of failures before you get on target, but attacking the farm problem is the only endeavor man has ever undertaken without any hope of permanent success at all.

Some people keep wondering what space exploration is all about, what we're going to find out there that's worth anything, but they miss the point entirely.

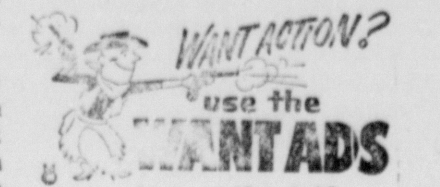

The purpose of exploring space is to get our minds off the problems of earth. Space can be whipped, but the earth can't.

Personally, I'm not interested in learning how to guide a rocket around the earth with me in it, to this nation than putting a man figuring out a successful long-range farm program, I'm glad I don't have either job. Which job you want?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

How working couple saves time and steps, gets more done with extension phones

By DON DAVIS,
Telephone News Writer

"My favorite phone is the Princess," says Ted Treadway. "The light-up dial's great. Also, the phone's handy for emergency calls."

"My green kitchen phone comes in real handy while dinner is cooking," says Norma Treadway. "I can make and receive calls while keeping an eye on things."

Junna Lynn Treadway, a third-grader, likes the phone in an alcove because she can sit on the floor and talk with friends.

What can extension telephones do for you?

Perhaps you can get some ideas from Ted and Norma Treadway. A working couple, they both take part in a large number of outside activities.

They have three colorful extension phones in their five-room home. These phones save them time and effort and give them more privacy. And the Treadways' bedroom phone gives them a comfortable feeling of security at night.

Why don't you see what extension phones can do for you? Just call the telephone business office or ask any telephone serviceman. Cost is low.

Ask about new Bell Chime. It announces your calls with a pleasant musical tone.

Mattsson-Boze, Noted Missionary Editor To Speak

"Africa will never turn Communist because communism does not fit the African - he is not Godless - he wants his God." This opinion was stated recently by Rev. Mattsson - Boze, an independent Pentecostal missionary to East Africa.

He will speak in Cameron Wednesday, May 24, 7:45 p. m. at the Cameron Gospel Tabernacle. Rev. H. M. Bowley is pastor.

The issue in the world today is "Christ vs. Sin," according to the minister, who has traveled widely.

He views communism as one of a number of sins, and believes that if people had their hearts changed they would not be interested in communism.

While in India last year, Mr. Mattsson - Boze talked with the Dalai Lama and told him the story of the Gospel.

The minister said the exiled Tibetan leader, a Buddhist, studies the Christian Bible and went on to see the film, "The Ten Commandments."

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford
Your local newspaper, a flip of the radio dial or a call to the local weather station may be sufficient to get weather conditions of a local nature.

But in this day of modern travel, when outdoorsmen think nothing of trailering their rigs 300 or 400 miles for a weekend on a major lake or the Gulf Coast, one needs more than just local predictions.

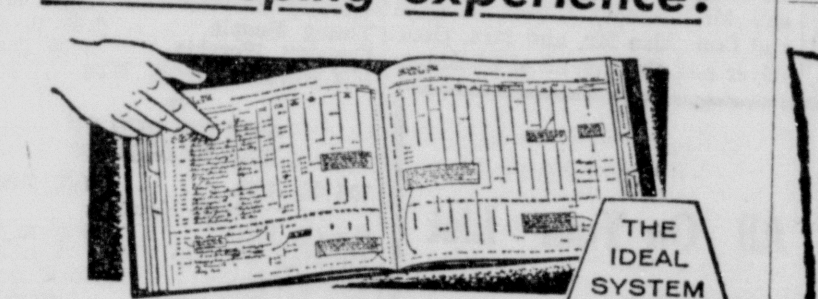

Weather conditions at home and 300 miles away can be quite the opposite on any given day. The wise outdoorsman will plan for his weekend by reading the signs, properly using the barometer, and by learning to visualize weather conditions in terms of wind velocity.

Suppose an outdoorsman in Dallas decides to weekend at Port Aransas. He can get an idea of the weather for the weekend by getting a barometric reading and tendency, wind velocity and cloud conditions. But he should obtain that information from the place where he plans to fish, not his point of departure.

1. A wind out of the easterly quadrant coupled with a falling barometer means foul weather is approaching.
2. A wind shift to the westward accompanied by a rising barometer means fair weather.
3. A steady, slowly rising barometer means settled weather.
4. A steady, slowly falling barometer means wet or unsettled weather.

Now, getting back to the barometer and wind, there are some broad and general rules that will hold true. Here are some of the main ones:

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY—THE COTTON BOLLWORM

This insect enemy has several aliases. Whether damaging corn as the corn earworm, ruining tomatoes as the tomato fruitworm or destroying cotton as the cotton bollworm, it eats into farm profits at a tremendous rate. First sign of a bollworm attack in cotton country may be the yellowish moths or the tiny green or white eggs in terminal growth on cotton plants. A female moth usually lays about 1,000 eggs which hatch in as little as 3 days. Populations can grow rapidly. The larva is the destructive stage. Worms feed on tender growth where they hatch, then travel downward through cotton plants. They eat out squares and tunnel into bolls. Although early season pest control may have permitted a good boll set, late season bollworms can ruin the crop. A new set of bolls may not have time to form. Bollworms are notorious for their ability to survive control efforts. However, during 1960, a new insecticide gave farmers the upper hand over the hard-to-kill bollworms. Growers report that this carbamate material, called Sevin, stopped heavy bollworm infestations. It even killed large worms that had penetrated the bolls. Sevin insecticide can be applied either as a dust or spray, entomologists point out. Because young worms are most easily killed, growers should check maturing cotton regularly. At first sign of bollworms, spray or dust with a broad-range insecticide that will kill bollworms and control other major cotton pests as well.

Britain Confirms Southern Rights; Race Continues

By Robert Stonedale
MONTGOMERY, Ala. May 14, 1861 -- Frantic efforts are continuing in all of the Confederate States to provide the force urgently needed for defense of the Republic but shortages of gunpowder, rifles, cannon, transport vehicles, and gun carriages are causing serious delays. If these are not quickly remedied, the Nation may be open to invasion by the vast numbers of Federal troops accumulating on the northern front.

The uniforms of these first organizations range from the beautifully tailored broadcloth of the elite Charleston, Richmond and districts. The former proudly bear modern infantry rifles with burnished bayonets while their less-favored comrades sport a motley collection of firearms ranging from beautifully engraved hunting pieces to antique smoothbore muskets. The lack of bayonets is compensated by knives ranging up action. They speak of their eagerness to strike at the foe now gathering on the northern border, and seem unconcerned with their lack of military precision or their need for additional equipment - especially cannon.

"Them big guns are great for makin' noise," Private James Burger of Calhoun County, Alabama, announced this morning as his regiment boarded a Virginia - ntier. On the brighter side is the news that the Tennessee Legislature has passed an ordinance of Secession and approved a military alliance with the Confederacy, thus swelling the South's reserves of manpower.

British Foreign Minister Lord John Russell has received the Confederate Commissioners in London but Queen Victoria has announced a policy of neutrality. The belligerent rights of the Confederacy were acknowledged in the proclamation however, and the Northern claim that its war against a Sovereign Republic is no more than an attempt to suppress rebellion has been spurned by the British Government.

Reports from the North tell of the arrival of several splendidly equipped regiments in Washington with dozens more enroute. The concentration of troops in the Federal capitol has forced Maryland into silence and it appears that state must look to Southern arms for eventual liberation.

Search For Arms

Confederate officials are planning to move to Richmond in accordance with the invitation extended last month by the Virginia legislature. Many citizens feel that the services and presence of the Chief Executive will be required on the frontier, since so much of the Nation's military force will be concentrated in that area. Meanwhile the railroads are pouring a steady stream of troops into the Virginia assembly camps and President Davis and his cabinet officers are scouring the South in the attempt to gather arms and supplies.

Under the Constitution the President is authorized to accept war material from the various States. Those possessing the necessary munitions are equipping their own troops as rapidly as possible and thus have little to spare for regiments from States less fortunately situated.

Contracts are being let by the central authorities for the manufacture of uniforms and arms in an attempt to remedy the shortages and deliveries are expected to begin soon.

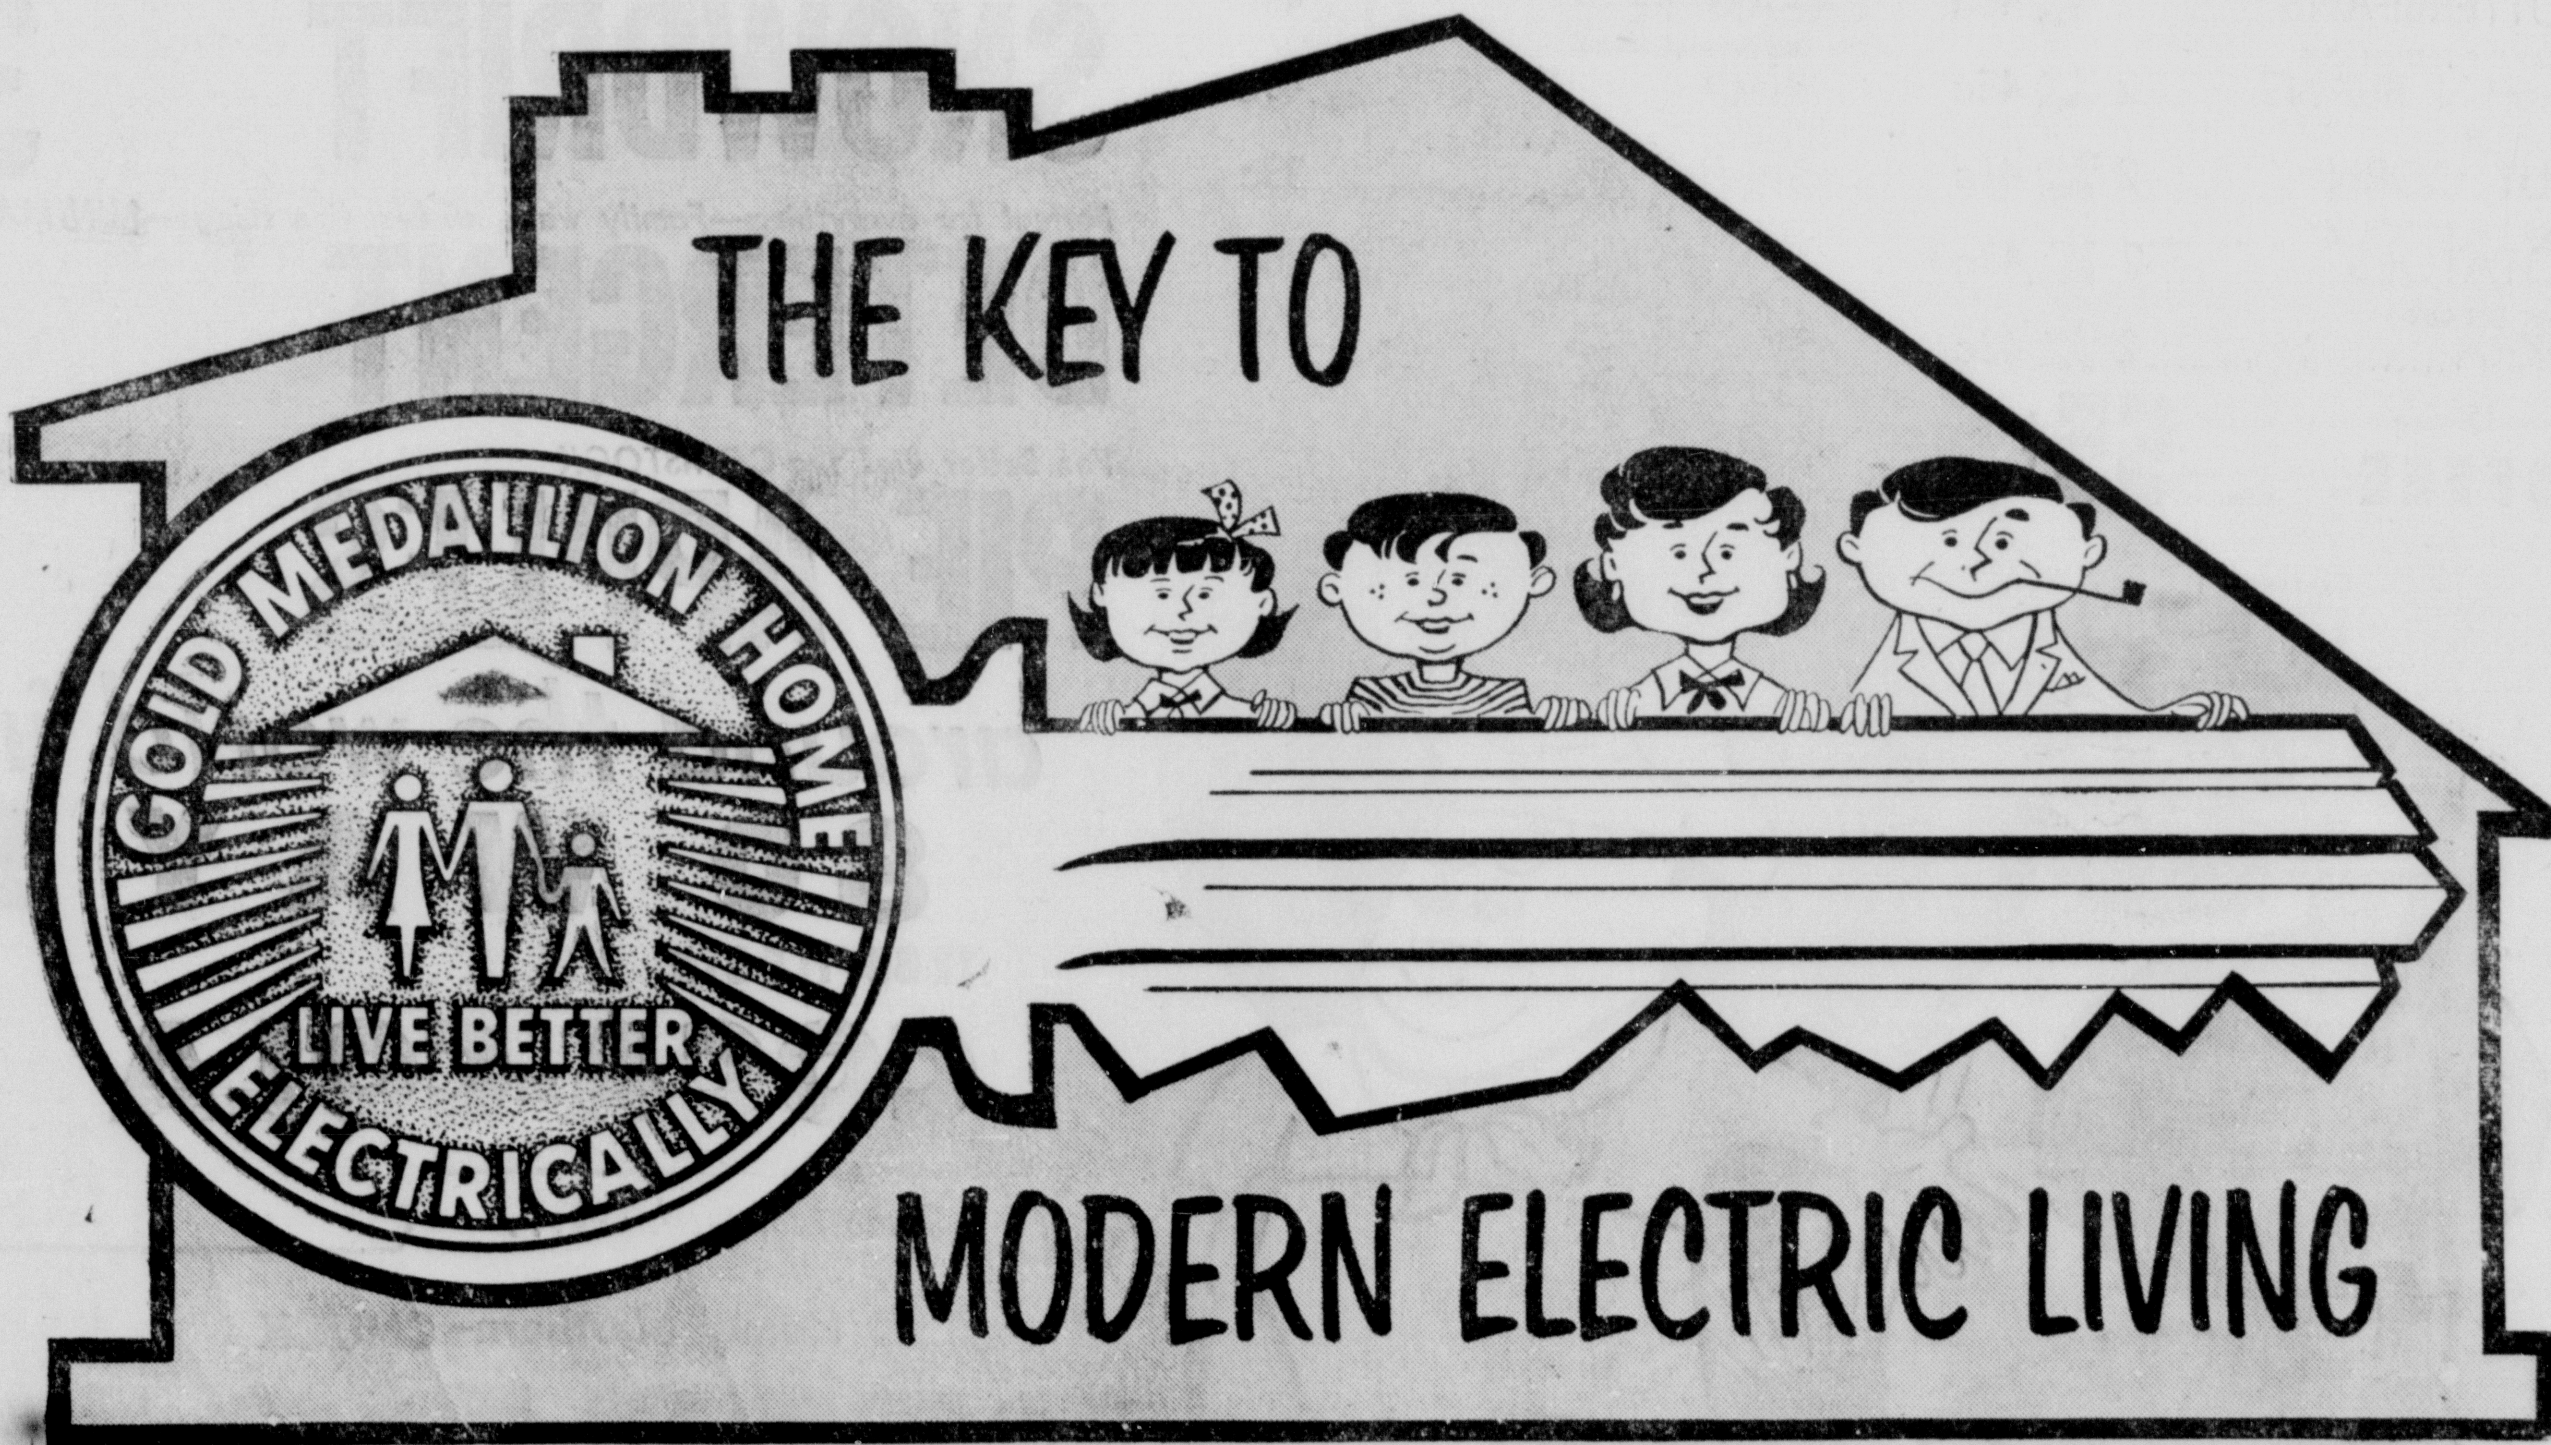

The system of accepting volunteer regiments with officers commissioned by the States where they originate is continuing. Those regiments which include famed militia companies are, on the whole, led by well - trained officers. This is not always the case in the recently raised volunteer companies.

Officers Are Elected

Company officers are generally elected by the rank and file in the new units and the successful candidates are sometimes the most popular rather than the best qualified. As the troops are accepted into the Confederate service however, they are being formed into brigades under officers nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The officers named to the rank of brigadier - general are distinguished soldiers all, and can be relied upon to overcome any organizational defects in their new commands.

Because the militia laws are similar in all of the States, the organization of the regiments exhibits some degree of conformity even though their uniforms and weapons vary widely. Most of the infantry companies number from 80 to 100 officers and men. Regiments usually include 10 companies and sometimes one or more battalions. From three to five regiments form a brigade.

The few cavalry regiments organize thus far comprise 12 troops, each about the size of an infantry company. Artillery is being organized by battalions in most cases.
